I've been working on a line of research lately to see how having out-of-wedlock children affects the children themselves as well as their parents. I spoke with two of my research assistants, one about her life growing up and being raised by her father and stepmother and one about his own life growing up and being raised by his mother and stepfather. They both reported similar experiences to me as I suggested that they might share their stories to help other families going through these challenges. I had this idea to hear how other families were dealing with this problem. Here is the first letter: Well, my name is Katlyn. I am eleven years old, and I have had an out-of-wedlock child. I have a baby sister, and she was born a little over a year ago. I have a husband, and we have been together for almost five years. My mom was in an accident last year, and I am helping to raise her. She has had to be in a hospital for a while, and it has been really hard on me and my family. My stepfather is a very nice person. I really don't know what to do. I really want a baby,
