- Support all SMB protocols. - Network resources discovery. - Scan SMB resources on local subnet only. - Automatically lists opened file shares. - Easy-to-use interface. - Easy-to-use reporting. - Find all SMB resources on a particular IP address range. - Help Center available - Free version Nice program that easily finds SMB shares available on the network, for those that love exploring their Net and wish to find your own resources! ...text file(s) and/or binary file(s) copied or stored on your hard drive to your personal web server by connecting to the server with your PC/Mac/Android device and copying/pasting the link(s) from your web browser. Through the Weblink-Exchange system you can automatically add a Web Link from websites that you visit and your computer can share it with other computers in your network, using UPnP support. With Web Link-Exchange you can share your favorite sites and bookmark your favorite pages on your own website. You can share it as an icon and add an entry to your Favorites, or add it as a website. The visitor to your website will be able to read the most visited web pages and you will be able to find out who is visiting your website. It's a nice way to find out what your visitors are using your computer for. A host of original features, this simple to use software is ideal for network administrators and webmasters alike who would like to keep an eye on what their visitors are doing. When you install this program it creates a Weblink server running automatically on your PC and displaying your website's URL in a standard web browser. When you visit another computer on your network, you can automatically log in to the Weblink from the browser and view the contents of your website on the other computer. The visitor doesn't have to have a WebLink program installed - the WebLink server will automatically detect that a web browser is connected to the network and provide access to the site. This program is ideal for hosting websites. You can create a "site" in a web browser, then you can access it directly from your computer by typing the address: "". The site you create is automatically displayed when you type the address in your browser. You can also directly connect to the Internet and add WebLinks to all your favorite pages using a WebLink

- Show Service Name or Domain Name for all systems on a LAN - Find all computers sharing the same folder - Find all computers sharing the same printer - Find all computers sharing the same desktop files (folders) - Find all computers sharing the same desktop icons (folders) - Find all computers sharing the same application installed - Show all computers running remote services ... - ...and so on It will list computers and IP's open to the Internet, not only exposed by Active Directory. Smb Resource Scanner Requirements: - Windows 2000 / Windows XP / Windows Vista / Windows 7 / Windows 8 - Netbios name resolution enabled - Administrator privileges to the Domain controller How to get it on your computer: 1. Install the application using the setup file; 2. Run the application; 3. Open the Network neighborhood. With a click of a button, it will scan your entire LAN or WAN. There is an easy way of checking computers only with open NBT ports: 1. Right click on Network Neighborhood icon; 2. Click Configure; 3. In the Open Network Places tab, in the General section select Show Remote resources; 4. Type a domain name and/or IP's range. Smb Resource Scanner does all the work to share the same resource to remote computers. After scanning, it will create a network-path from computer to computer, so you could see shared resources between all the computers (printers, shared folders, shared desktop file, shared desktop icons, etc.) Smb Resource Scanner is installed on all computers that are made available to the Internet. This is the first and last time you will be able to connect to a resource on another computer. After scanning, any changes to the network path will be automatically saved, so that next time you will be able to see all the previously shared resources. After one scan and when first time you share a resource, Smb Resource Scanner will generate a unique folder and a unique file name, that are assigned to the resource that is shared. For example, folder C:\Users\username\Desktop will be the name of the desktop files you share using Smb Resource Scanner. Folder My Documents (C:\Users\username\Documents) will be
